

Feng Shui: Abundance

The concept of wealth is subjective; to some it means the achieving of a fixed sum of money, to some it may mean material abundance, there are other rs to whom being blessed and getting whatever they need, as and when the need arises is wealth. Feng Shui covers all these aspects; it believes that you alone should set the parameters for abundance. It surely says that it's fine to be rich and want material pleasures. According to fengshui you need not attach guilt to abundance and extravagance; however the means to achieving such wealth must be honestly comfortable to the person in question.

The features and areas related to wealth in your premises are your main door, the south east, the richness of décor displayed, the water features and water sources in your home.

All the above mentioned features need to be taken care of; kept in good condition and enhanced as per the location or direction in which they exist.
